

Father, we declare your Word over the oppressed, abused and tortured prisoners of January 6. We declare that they are even now surrounded by your unfailing love, mercy, and grace. We know that you are close to them. We know that you will not leave them nor forsake them. We know that you will never abandon them.

Hide them under the shadow of your wings. Protect them from the wicked who oppress them, and from the enemies who surround them. Break the yoke of political persecution from off their necks, and burst asunder their chains.

We bind every lying spirit that would falsely and maliciously accuse them. We declare that no weapon formed against them shall prosper and that every tongue that rises against them shall be proven to be in the wrong, for this is their heritage as your servants, and their righteousness is from you, Lord.

As we pray for these men and women, we boldly declare that your Spirit, Lord, is upon us. You have anointed us to bring good news to the afflicted. You have sent us to bind up the broken-hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives and freedom to prisoners. We declare that you sit upon your throne judging right and that you faithfully maintain their right and their cause.

Holy Spirit, come as the breath of heaven, and refresh and renew these patriots and their families. Fill their souls with hope, peace and joy. May they continually sing your praises, as your joy strengthens and sustains them daily.

May we all continue to love You, O Lord, our strength. You, Lord, are our rock, our fortress, and our deliverer, our God, our strength, in whom we will trust; You are our shield and the horn of our salvation, our stronghold. We call upon you, Lord, for you are worthy to be praised; So shall we be saved from our enemies.

We declare that we will pursue our spiritual enemies and overtake them because you have armed us with strength for the battle.

We declare that we will stand and not grow weary, as you subdue our enemies beneath our feet.

We declare that you have made us the head and not the tail. We shall not be moved! We will not bend! We will not bow! We will not break! Since you are for us who can be against us?

We declare we shall see the salvation of the Lord in the land of the living. Nothing shall ever separate us from your love. God save and bless America!

In Jesus name. Amen!
